With more than 25 years of experience in high-stakes litigation, Steven concentrates his practice in the areas of securities litigation & enforcement, white-collar defense, investigations and compliance. He represents companies and individuals accused of securities and commodities law violations, public corruption, business crimes and fraudulent practices by U.S. Attorneys' Offices, States Attorneys General, District Attorneys' Offices, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

Steven has extensive experience in matters arising under securities laws, public corruption investigations and prosecutions, art and cultural object-related crimes, and health care fraud cases, among others. In criminal and regulatory matters, Steven works with broker-dealers, stockbrokers, hedge funds, investment advisers and corporate executives.

Steven works with companies to conduct internal investigations and represents individual officers and executives in corporate investigations. He also served with the independent monitor overseeing a multinational manufacturing company's compliance with its obligations under a deferred prosecution agreement (DPA) with federal prosecutors.

RESULTS*

- obtained complete dismissal and exoneration representing a surety industry executive charged with obstruction of justice by a U.S. Attorney's Office
- represented a financial services industry executive charged by the U.S. Attorney's Office, SDNY, with hacking into his former employer's computer system to steal confidential information, which resulted in the Government dropping its felony charge against the client
- represented a real estate executive indicted by the U.S. Attorney's Office, SDNY, for allegedly paying bribes to a state senator and money laundering, which resulted in the U.S. Attorney's Office dropping all charges against the client
- represented a client who, along with six others, was charged with insider trading in various stocks by the SEC; successfully convinced federal prosecutors not to add the client to the criminal case and resolved the SEC civil case by settling with the SEC
