David Fitzgibbon concentrates his practice on intellectual property matters, with a focus on chemical and mechanical arts. He is experienced in drafting and procuring patents, counseling clients regarding the scope and significance of their and others' patent and IP rights, and negotiating technology-related agreements on behalf of clients.

David also has significant experience providing intellectual property advice to start-up companies, providing advice and assistance in patenting and commercialization of inventions owned by not-for-profit institutions, and providing analyses of patent issues.

Prior to joining Stradley Ronon, David was an associate at another Philadelphia law firm focusing on intellectual property litigation and patent work. He graduated from the Temple University School of Law, where he was a Research Editor for the International and Comparative Law Journal.

RESULTS
