Michael D. Mabry is a partner in Stradley Ronon's investment management practice group. Michael counsels investment companies, investment advisers, broker-dealers and other financial service providers on a variety of securities and corporate matters. He regularly works with mutual funds, listed closed-end funds, interval funds and exchange-traded funds. He has counseled boards of directors and investment advisers on regulatory, investigatory, enforcement and litigation matters, including SEC examinations, closed-end fund proxy fights, rescissions and private litigation. Michael frequently helps clients develop, register and launch new and innovative investment products, and assists investment advisers and funds in complex transactions and instruments, including derivatives, credit arrangements, alternative investments, mergers, offshore investments and proxy solicitations. He also assists investment adviser clients with registration and disclosure requirements, self-custody, compliance and marketing.

From 2007–2012, Michael served as co-chair of the Philadelphia Bar Association Committee on Investment Companies. He received his J.D. from the University of Virginia, holds a master's degree in economics and received his B.G.S. from the University of Michigan. Michael served as a research assistant for the Division of International Finance of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System from 1985–1988.

RESULTS

- obtained a no-action letter from the SEC allowing a sub-adviser to become a fund adviser without a shareholder vote in Emerging Global Advisors, LLC and EGA Emerging Global Shares Trust
- defended closed-end funds in proxy fights with activist shareholders and succeeded in having shareholder proposals eliminated from annual proxies; for example Franklin Universal Trust
- represented an ETF adviser in intellectual property litigation for trademark infringement
- represented independent directors in connection with SEC enforcement proceedings against an adviser, and defended the independent directors in private litigation in connection with market timing in a mutual fund complex
