Deenah Sirota is a skilled litigator with significant experience representing clients. She focuses her practice on complex litigation matters in the highly regulated health care industry.

Before her time at Stradley Ronon, Deenah served as staff counsel for a large insurance company, where she advised adjusters regarding coverage, legal issues, appropriate action, case progress and settlement ranges. She also was an associate at a Philadelphia-based law firm, representing clients in workers' compensation claims, personal injury accidents, wrongful death cases and more.

Deenah obtained her J.D. from Drexel University, Thomas R. Kline School of Law. She graduated summa cum laude from John Jay College of Criminal Justice, receiving her B.A. in Forensic Psychology. During her time at Drexel University, she received the Sarah Nerino Perseverance Award, the National Association of Women Lawyers Outstanding Law Student Award and graduated with Pro Bono Service Honors. Deenah also served as a legal intern for the Drexel Appellate Litigation Clinic.

IN THE COMMUNITY

Deenah volunteered at the Metropolitan Council on Jewish Poverty, where she worked on proposing legislation along with the New York State Anti-Trafficking Coalition on the Trafficking Victims Protection and Justice Act and has obtained a grant for the non-profit World Without Exploitation.
